

We're here for good.

At PPRM, our communities are at the heart of everything we do. We listen to and learn from our patients, students, and supporters, so that our priorities help meet the needs of each community we serve. Whether it's an innovation in our sex education programming, expanding access to care through telehealth, or canvassing to get out the vote, we do this work every day so we can be here, no matter what, for our local communities and for patients traveling to our Rocky Mountain region to access high-quality, compassionate sexual and reproductive health care.

Across Colorado, New Mexico, Southern Nevada, and Wyoming, our communities raise their voices to make the message clear that health care is a top priority. We know it's up to us to remain a safe haven for all those who need our care within our four-state region, and for the countless patients in nearby and neighboring states facing barriers to care in their home communities.

The stakes are high and our work is of critical importance. Because of you, we know we'll be able to say, today and into the future: We're here for good.

Health Services

98,308
health center visits

136,642
STI tests (including HIV)

6,807
wellness exams

84,018
birth control methods

13,877
abortions

3,363
out-of-state patients

Community Engagement

3,225
volunteer hours

41,838
new supports

1,510
conversations with elected officials

Responsible Sex Education Institute (RSEI)

19,393
students were taught sex education

1,070
sex education classes were taught

NEW MEXICO

FACT SHEET 2021

1,163

breast exams

8,120

birth control methods

1,707

abortions

13,737

health center visits

855

telehealth visits

17,476

STI tests

1,061

wellness
visits

639

out-of-state patients

